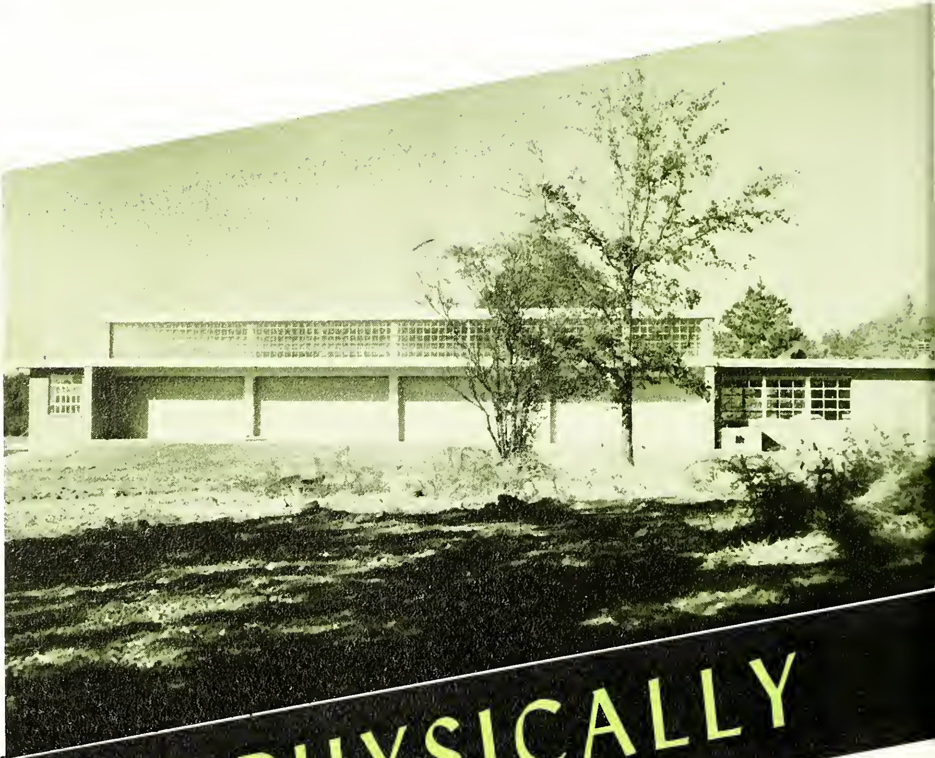
YEARS OF GROWTH...



..SEEN PHYSICALLY

...THROUGH THE BEAUTY OF OUR GROWING CAMPUS...

Through these Cycles

The physical growth and expansion of Alabama College has advanced. Evidence of our physical growth is revealed in the creation of our 28 acre lake, the building of our modern swimming pool, and the remodeling of the Home Economics and Art Departments.

With these accomplishments behind us, Alabama College is looking forward to an even more progressive future.

COLLEGE

Since the establishment of Alabama College in 1896, it has grown continuously until today it is one of the finest colleges in the South, both in standards and traditions.

One of the most noticeable growths is the presence of the many different buildings around the campus.

From the lone Reynolds Hall, which once housed all classes and departments, we now have separate classroom and departmental buildings with new buildings being added as they are needed.

Though not as noticeable to visitors, the administration, faculty, and student government are cooperating and working hand in hand with the student body to aid in promoting progress. Our dormitory housemothers could never be forgotten in our college life. They are always ready to help students in any of their personal or campus problems. They as well as the other members of the college community back the students one hundred percent.

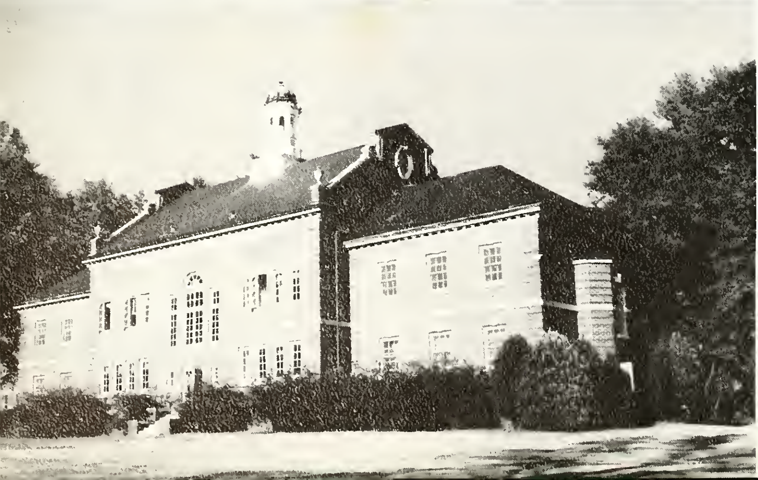
With the high standards that Alabama College maintains and is so proud of, we the student body, are positive that this school will continue through the years to be the great institution it is today.

MAIN DORMITORY

the largest dormitory in the South, is comprised of three distinct units connected by cross halls. It contains parlors, offices, and rooms for approximately four hundred twenty girls.

THE DAIRY

completed in 1928, contains approximately two hundred acres, which grazes a herd of one-hundred registered cattle.



CALKINS HALL

home of the Music Department, was erected in 1917. It is named in memory of Charles Rendell Calkins, who for seven years was Director of Music at the College.

FLOWERHILL

the President's residence, is located on the northern end of the campus amid a beautiful garden. The now traditional Flowerhill was named by Dr. Harmon during his Presidency.

CAMPUS

Looking from the President's home may be seen the beautiful rolling slopes of the campus, with its many pecan trees and stately buildings.

PETERSON HALL

the College Infirmary, was erected in 1913. or of the second President of the College, Dr. Frances Marion Peterson.

DEDICATION

When we were in trouble—he sympathized with us. When we needed advice—his strong hand guided us.

When we could not see into the future, his wise eyes pierced the gloomy depths of uncertainty for us.

Since 1926 he has devoted his life to this—his Alabama College. Being an active member of various civic and educational organizations, he is ever seeking to provide a better world in which to live.

Looking back over his years at this institution we can hardly recognize the end of his active career in the Administration of Alabama College at Montevallo.

We are deeply honored to dedicate the 1951-52 MONTAGE to a man whose official title of Dean has become synonymous with that of his own name—

DEAN T. H. NAPIER

The PRESIDENT

The ever guiding hand of our President, Dr. John T. Caldwell, has helped to make Alabama College the outstanding institution it is today.

In addition to his executive position at Alabama College, Dr. Caldwell, this year, received the Carnegie Travel Grant. With this Grant he was given the opportunity to visit other institutions of higher learning over the nation, and to study their different forms of administration. His itinerary included such schools as University of California, University of Chicago, Michigan State College, Harvard, Vassar, and Johns Hopkins.

The GOVERNOR

Although he is rarely seen about the campus, one of Alabama College's greatest enthusiasts is our new Governor, Gordon Persons.

Governor Persons is President of the Alabama College Board of Trustees.

DEAN

After 25 years of service, our Dean Napier has retired from the field of formal education. As Dean, he was a person the students could turn to in time of trouble; always ready to discuss scholastic, personal or home problems with "his girls." Even though he no longer occupies his office in Palmer, he will always have a place in the heart of Alabama College.

BUSINESS MANAGER

Even though his arrival on our campus is fairly recent, Mr. Barclay, Alabama College's new Business Manager, has already shouldered the responsibility of balancing the school's budget, and ironing out the problems of organization expenditures. His friendly smile and willingness to help with financial difficulties has won for him a place as a friend and advisor to the students at Alabama College.

ADMIN

Our Administration is an important branch of the tree of education at Alabama College.

Through their offices pass the problems, joys, and heartaches of the students, each a little different, each needing that certain bit of advice which comes from experience.

STRATION

There must be co-operation between all administration officials, each making an effort to understand themselves as well as the students and faculty.

In achieving this goal the Administration has served as an impetus toward the raising of the standards and advancement of Alabama College.

EARLENE DECKER,
President Student Government Associotion

The Student Government Association of Alabama College, one of the most progressive and admired in the South, is similar to our own national government in that there is a division of power in its executive, judicial, and legislative bodies. The Executive Council, serving as a co-ordinating body for all campus activities, has sponsored the annual College Night program, begun a record library, set aside a sum for the Name-Band Dance, contributed to the Honor Scholarship Program, sent delegates to the National Student Association Congress, and the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government Conferences. In addition to these and other progressive steps, the Student Government is planning in the future for the greater development of Alabama College.

SENATE

BILLIE SUE BEAN, President

The legislative power of Alabama College is rested in the hands of the Student Senate. This is probably the most democratic of any of the three branches of the Student Government, for the students themselves have a direct voice in this body. It is the responsibility of the Senate to pass laws and regulations. This year the Senate has okayed all budgets, been official custodian of the flag, introduced a bill concerning creative work prior to College Night, made the regulations for Crook Week, and introduced many minor bills dealing with the efficiency of the Student Government. The annual orientation program, under the cosponsorship of all three bodies of Student Government has also been one of its main functions. Even with all these new developments toward growth, the Student Senate is continually seeking to improve itself, as are the Student Court and Executive Council, by revision of their various constitutions.

Junior Senators

Senior Senators

The Student Court, which composes the judicial body of our triple-limbed Student Government Association, has this year placed special emphasis on the students' personal responsibility. It tended to create a healthy atmosphere on the campus as well as handle disciplinary problems with an objective eye. Honor Week, under the sponsorship of the Court, through a series of meetings and group discussion, has been a boon to the whole campus by securing individual acceptance of the Honor System. The Student Court has invigorated its growth by an experimental tapping system and the standardization of case procedure, which is very similar to that of a Civil Court.

A class in life

ART . . .

Years of study and actual experience in the field of art have qualified Dawn S. Kennedy to be head of the Alabama College Art Department. A widely known artist herself, Miss Kennedy strives to bring out individuality and creativeness in her many art classes.

Associate Professor of Art, Virginia W. Barnes, ably assists Miss Kennedy. Famous for her silk-screen prints, Mrs. Barnes teaches a variety of classes, from the most painstakingly exact mechanical drawing, to her favored vivid, modernistic painting.

Miss Martha Allen, who also holds the rank of Associate Professor, has her main interest in the field of ceramics.

MISS ALLEN

MRS. BARNES

In a department all her own, Miss Allen encourages students to express their ideas in this field of aestethics.

The newest member of the Alabama College art staff, Mr. Lewis H. Berry, specializes in crafts. Under his guidance, students create everything from earrings to the most elaborate billfolds.

Under the supervision of this faculty, the Art Department of Alabama College has expanded until it has become a modern, up-to-date facility for the enjoyment of the college students, faculty, civic clubs, and campus organizations. Even with the newly-acquired improvements, the department already has its eye on the blueprints of a new art building.

BIOLOGY...

The Biology Department faculty consists of a triumvirate of well-trained individuals who are interested in presenting different phases of the biological sciences in an informative manner.

Mr. C. G. Sharp, Head of the Biology Department, is the holder of B. S. and M. S. degrees from Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Associate Professor of Biology, Helen Blackiston, frequently conducting field trips and experiments of her own, is the holder of an M. A. from Columbia University, while Dr. Paul C. Bailey, Assistant Professor of Biology has received his Ph.D from Vanderbilt University.

DR. BAILEY

MISS BLACKISTON

MR. SHARP

Profiting by expert teaching, students studying in laboratories equipped with special, modern supplies for biology, zoology, botany, histology, anatomy, physiology, and pathogenic biology, are trained for jobs as laboratory and medical technicians.

Frequently, field trips are taken through various biologically scientific institutions to give students a direct insight into this type of work.

Courses are arranged to fit individual needs, ranging from fundamental biological findings to the more complex truths of this scientific division, Biology.

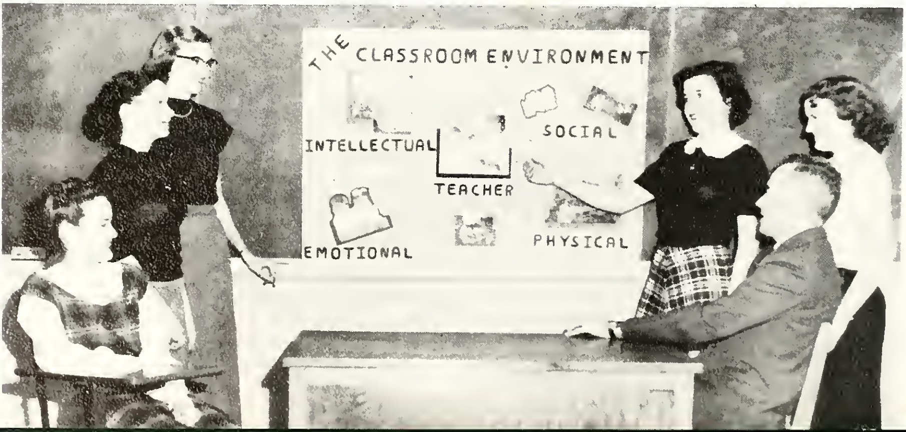
Future Teachers of America exemplify the objectives of the Education Department.

EDUCATION

The Education Department of Alabama College is headed by Dr. M. L. Orr, who has received his Ph.D from Peabody College. It is his duty to form an interesting and definite connection with the Laboratory School and the College.

The department faculty consists of Mr. A. C. Anderson, Professor of Secondary Education, Miss Minnie Dunn, Assistant Professor of Education, Dr. Charles A. Gormley, Assistant Professor of Education, and Miss Laura B. Hadley, Associate Professor of Education, and Assistant Director of Extension.

Officers of the F. T. A., EVERS, AUTREY, HARTLEY, BLAIR, and CHAMPION discuss with MR. GORMLEY the work of the classroom teacher and her problems.



MR. ANDERSON

MISS DUNN

In this program of teacher training, the Department of Education is continually striving to combine actual teaching in the Laboratory School with the philosophy of education, as taught in the courses offered by the College.

Students may major in either elementary education or secondary education, being equipped to go directly into their chosen field without further study.

Dr. Eva Golson heads the English Department at Alabama College. She received her Ph. D. from the University of Chicago.

The title of author-in-residence is held by Mr. Robert Payne, author of one of last year's best sellers, Mao Tse Tung. This brilliant author was named by the New York Times as the most versatile writer of the year.

Miss Nancy Haywood Leonard assists Mr. Payne in instructing classes in creative writing. She has received her M. S. from Peabody College.

Associate Professor of English, Eloise Meroney is the holder of an M. A. from Columbia University while Miss Sarah Puryear, also an Associate Professor, has received her M. S. from Peabody College.

Mrs. Virginia Hamilton, whose favorite subject is journalism, completes the faculty of the English Department.

In an effort to present English in exciting, yet practical courses, the English Department has offered everything from creative writing to the study of poetry to journalism. These courses equally, well-prepare a student to be a full time author, English teacher, or newspaper reporter.

New interest in creative writing has been fostered by the bi-annual publication of the Tower by the students themselves.

MISS STOCKTON

The Foreign Language Department also offers courses in the classical as well as modern languages. While students learn the language itself, they are introduced to the various customs and cultures of the countries which they are studying.

Foreign students from Japan, China, Germany, Columbia, Argentina, Honduras, Hawaii, and France, help in the classes to give just the right accent and inside views of their country's speech and life.

These students aid greatly in developing new interest and understanding between the United States and other countries.

MR. HUTCHINSON

EDUCATION

Students in this department take an active part in campus wide discussions on subjects pertaining to religion and are extremely interested in the new ideas resulting from foreign religious issues.

In order to bring about tolerance and understanding, students of religious education visit churches of different denominations. Along with their achievement of greater tolerance, an understanding of man's relationship to man through the medium of faith is learned. Students may enroll in a variety of courses in religious education.

Classes

Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen, each class in its own way, add to the physical, intellectual, and spiritual growth of the students at Alabama College.

As the tree of education gains in height, and the twigs and the foliage become thicker, the students revise their aims and ambitions, setting up new standards with which to meet the difficulties of this their college life.

FRESHMEN

It was on that exciting day in September when we got our first impression of A. C. — of red bricks and girls in white—that the growth of the class of 1955 began.

In the first stage of our growth were exams, handbook drills, homesickness, and the problem of getting acquainted with college life.

Getting into the swing of things, the Freshmen had a class meeting and made their plans for the year, which included the election of class officers, a big dance and a party for the most honorable Seniors. Behind the plans being made for parties, dances, and fun, we shaped the ideals of our class.

Elite Night the class received recognition as it took top honors with four beauties and one favorite.

Even though College Night was a new experience for us, we entered in enthusiastically. As a Purple or as a Gold we struggled to make our side the winner and in doing so found the true art of good sportsmanship.

Our main objective is to be good leaders when we reach our full growth as Seniors.

SOPHOMORES

When the Sophomore Class first appeared on the campus of Alabama College, they were similar to a tiny young sprig which has just begun to rear its head above the newly-discovered earth of college life.

Then as the once tiny sprigs began to grow a new feeling of confidence and class spirit developed.

As Sophomores, we could give advice and help to the new Freshman Class which filled our so recently vacated shoes.

A closer feeling of unity and class spirit grew as the Sophomores started their social whirl with a party at the camphouse.

This wide-awake class, was the first to entertain the most honorable Seniors with a Halloween Masquerade.

This was soon followed by a star-filled evening of dancing to the dreamy music of Elliot Lawrence.

So it is as we end our Sophomore year, that we have developed a new feeling of confidence and class spirit. It is with a rather keen anticipation that we are looking forward to the Junior parties, activities, and yes—even the famed Crook Week, as we embark on our third year of campus life at Alabama College.

JUNIORS

This our third year at Alabama College has contributed greatly to the development of this class in its search for self-realization.

Progress this year has been highlighted by the strengthening of the honor code, Religious Emphasis Week, class projects, dances, and the long awaited "Crook Week." This year we were no longer standing on the outside as spectators, but were actively taking part in the initiation of our class in the realm of Seniordom.

Now, as we finish our Junior year at Alabama College we are keeping our thoughts forward to our Senior year on this campus and the certainty of a limitless depth of spiritual and intellectual growth is ours.

SENIORS

Each year that we, the Senior class, have been here at Alabama College we've taken one more step up the stairway of life toward a culmination of rich, profitable living-spiritually, intellectually, and socially.

We have become individuals who aren't afraid of ourselves, having learned to think and to make decisions which we aren't afraid to back with our own reasoning.

As we leave Alabama College, we are taking with us a heart full of memories — memories that bring; laughter as we remember those wonderful sessions where we discussed and straightened out the problems of the world; of the starlit nights of our all-campus dances, and the crazy antics of Crook Week; quizzical, wondering smiles which say "how silly and young" we used to be, looking back on how scared we were every time the Seniors marched. How we dreaded seeing our report cards which weren't usually as bad as we thought; tears sorrowful tears as we remember the friends we won't see again, and proud tears as we first donned our cap and gown and the day that we, the Seniors, take off our cap and gown for the last time, the day that climaxes our activities here at Alabama College—GRADUATION DAY.

FEATURES

Poise, graciousness, beauty and talent. These are qualities sought each year in the annual Elite Night beauty pageant which features the beauties and favorites from each of the four classes highlighted by the choosing of the Elite of the Senior Class.

Personality, character, leadership and intelligence are the qualifications of 12 members of the Senior Class as they take their places among the pages of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities". "College Night", homecoming at Alabama College Night," Homecoming at Alabama Col- year as the Purples and the Golds join in a friendly competition of talent and originality. "College Night" emphasizes the true spirit of clean sportsmanship and democratic competitiveness which is so characteristic of Alabama College.

Silhouetted momentarily behind transparent screens, the ninty-five Elite Night candidates descended the curved ramp of black and white piano keys October 27, in the annual Elite Night Presentation.

The fifty-five Elite candidates, made up of members of the Senior Class who were outstanding in their field, were presented with the four members of the Senior Class who were vying for top honors as "Miss Alabama College."

Being elected "Miss Alabama College" is the highest honor that can come to a member of the Senior Class. To the student body and faculty she is a symbol of Alabama College in representiveness, leadership, personality and scholastic ability.

From the forty girls elected by their classes as most beautiful are chosen six beauties and eight favorites. The beauty judges were Mr. J. C. Leavell, President of Alabama Art League, Montgomery; Mr. Raymond J. MacMahon, Associate Professor of Art, Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham; Mr. Frank L. Engle, Assistant Professor of Art, University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa; and Mrs. Lila Lee Hillhouse, Fashion Columnist, Birmingham News.

Dean Napier presented the members of the Senior Class who were elected to "Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities." With the approval of both students and faculty twenty-six girls were chosen to compete for this honor. They were judged on personality, sense of responsibility, contribution to campus life, campus leadership, and potentialities for further usefulness.

The names of the twelve girls elected will appear in the annual "Who's Who" publication.

With Evidences of a job well done the final curtain rang down on the 1951-52 Elite Night.

COLLEGE NIGHT

Echoes of "Purples! Golds! College Night!" resounded over the campus as the Purple-Gold tug-of-war, celebrating the 34th annual College Night and Homecoming, officially began February 1st.

Purple Leaders: JANE SARVER, JOANNE HIXON

With the election of leaders and assistant leaders, and with the selection of cabinets and cheerleaders, everything was off to a fast start.

THE GOLD CABINET

The leaders, along with twenty-two cabinet members, direct the many phases of the theatre production. Every phase of the creative arts is included on the cabinet, plus the necessary workmen who put the ideas to work.

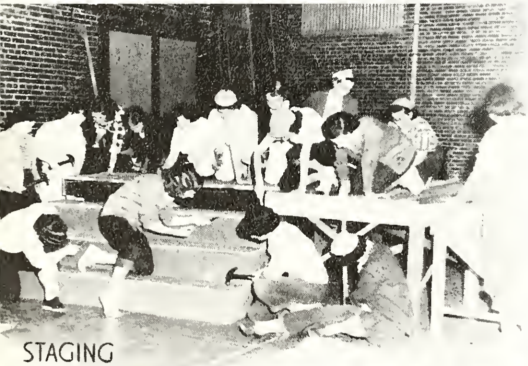
Gold Cheerleaders: FULTON, DORROUGH, GLOVER

Purple Cheerleaders: PRIESTER, JOHNSON, HARVEY, QUARLES

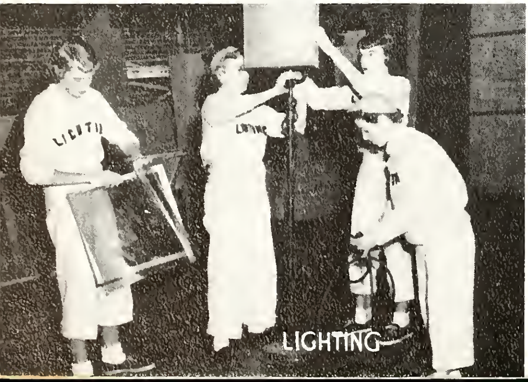
The cheerleaders, along with the drummers, have a big job in keeping up the pep and spirit of the sides, which in turn give support to the cabinet members and their groups through all their days and nights of hard work.

THE PURPLE CABINET

These are the creative artists who were responsible for the ideas, music, stage settings, and drama which were very vital to the development of the Gold production. Make-up and costumes added the final touch.



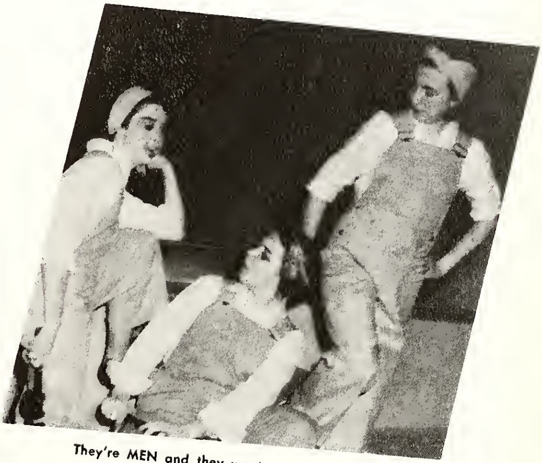
STAGING



This is the Age of the Flapper

The Gold Production "Off the Hearthstone" featured all women fighing for woman's right to vote. This production was presented as a musical comedy.

Right: Talking about the output demanded in the factory.



They're MEN and they want to vote

We are the girls of the assembly line

Staging

From the writers down to the last bit of make-up, the Purples' creative groups worked hard to produce their production.

Directing

But Sire, there is a Prince to see you.

The Purple Production "Journey from a Star" had an altogether different type of setting. Its main purpose was to point out how things look from the viewpoint of a child. It reminded us that "he who sees with his heart wants for others."

"Look—There's my Star!"

The world is ours to control and conquer.

Here is his story . . .

DR. JOHN T. CALDWELL

Each year, College Night is dedicated to an individual who has contributed much to the improvement and growth of the college. This year it was dedicated to one we have come to love, respect, and admire . . . President John T. Caldwell.

College Night is not only for us here on the campus but is also Homecoming for all of the Alumnae. It provides an excellent opportunity for an annual review of the college.

Welcome Alumnae! Class of 1902.

G. V. G. V. G. V. for '52.

Purple, Purple, Purple for Me.

The last part of College Night is, perhaps, the most memorable of all, since it is at this time that we learn who wins the honor of having the better production. All of the energy, love and devotion we have for our side is shown at this time. The final note of College Night, the decision, was this year, a GOLDEN VICTORY.

THE DECISION OF THE JUDGES IS IN FAVOR OF THE GOLDS

Activities

Through the years, as Alabama College has grown so have her activities grown. Old activities have been improved and new ones begun.

Students are urged to take part in activities and in doing so they grow more in the understanding of a democratic way of life.

Student literary creativeness is given opportunity for expression in work on the ALABAMIAN, and the MONTAGE and in connection with the College Radio Station.

Recreational activities are enabled by joint services of the Social Committee and Recreation Board. The College Theatre and Concert and Lecture Series take an important role in the campus social life.

The oldest, most dreaded, yet eagerly anticipated campus activity, is the traditional "CROOK WEEK." To the students this is a goal long dreamed of—a "symbol of growth from a lowly Junior into the Senior class."

Spiritual growth is encouraged through different church organizations, Religious Council, and Y which sponsors yearly "THE WORLD STUDENT SERVICE FUND" drive. These activties in addition to campus organizations make up the Colleges' extra-curricular program.

Theater Council

The Theater Council, started in the Spring of 1930, is a policy making body. It maintains committees to function in the various phases of production as well as play selection.

Membership requirements have been participation in two fields of theater work with work on at least two plays. Recently added is the rule that candidates must show initiative and responsibility. Membership varies from thirty to sixty members.

With the new lake and faculty club house has come an increase in the recration of hiking. Many hikes are of course off the record, but for every two recorded hikes claimed by the same dormitory, an intramural point is given.

Along with hiking, comes a renewed interest in softball, as the spring approaches, and this sport is enjoyed by the spectators as much as by the participants.

One might say that ping pong is a milder way of playing tennis. At any rate the girls enjoy playing so much that each dormitory is equipped with ping pong facilities.

Dreadful Expectations

CROOK

The first of May—the exalted Crook—the lowly Junior.
The initiation of the Junior Class into Seniordom began with Crook Convocation.
Primly dressed as old maids, the "lowly ones" made their entrance, aided slightly by the Seniors.
Dreadful expectations turned into a reality as the fateful title of the lowly Junior was revealed as Gerenuk Lithocranius.

We're Scared Stiff!

Timidly hiding behind a bit of greenery carried in its hand, the Gerenuk Lithocrani was dressed most fashionably. Her hair was arranged in an upsweep with horns attached on each side of the head. She was clad in a wrong-side-out, backward gym suit with a bag tail extending from the shoulder to the hemline.

Afternoon Matinee

WEEK

Underwater Ballet

Stockings were rolled below the knees and adorned with gay flowers and ribbons setting off her spotless white tennis shoes.

To break the monotony of the day which began at 4 a. m. the Gerenuk Lithocrani carried out the orders of the most Honorable Seniors from impromptu ballets to philosophic lectures and terrace teas.

Jury's Verdict—"Guilty"

Croak Court! The time of reckoning was at hand. The death march rolled forth from the mighty organ as luminous skeletons wandered over the darkened auditorium. The curtain opened revealing numerous Gerenuk Lithocranius suspended by their necks as the solemnly clad Senior Court disclosed the crimes and penalities of each Junior as she was brought before them. The penalities paid and each Junior repentent of her sins, the Crook was given to the President of the incoming Senior Class as each Junior received the sacred cap and gown from "her Senior."

On With the Trial

"Sarver" Pleads Her Case

"Cleavie" finds the Crook

Seniordom—At Last

The fire-whistle, ringing bells, and the cheers of the tired but happy Juniors announced the finding of the CROOK.

The heroine of the hour was Carolyn Cleveland who unearthed the crook at 5:35 P. M. in the rose bushes and ivy on front campus.

The Junior class, distinguished by finding the Crook earlier than any preceding class, no longer had to bow before the Honored Seniors because they too, were now traditionally, Seniors.

Just Let Me Touch It

The Y. W. C. A. has an important part in the life of the student at Alabama College. Through this organization the students "unite in the desire to realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God."

Among the Y's many projects for the past year have been the Sis-Major-Sis Minor program, the W. S. S. F. Drive, Religious Emphasis Week, and the International Relations Club.

Third Row: RICKLES, TEAGUE, WARD, BLACKWELL

Parties, activities, the social whirl—even those mad, oh-so-embarassing moments may be caught in an instant by the photographer's ever-ready lens and flash-bulb.

Perhaps it was the Junior-Senior volleyball game, or the Sis-Major, Sis-Minor party—or maybe it was some unscheduled event that happened on the campus which gave you a big thrill! They can all be preserved in pictures.

These are a few of the extra-curricular activities which go to form the twigs and foliage on the symbolic tree of college life at Alabama College.
